The Vigilants-Tigers Foot Ball Game Not Yet Arranged.

IS A QUESTION OF STAKE MONEY

Now, the Vigilants Wanting Heavier Stakes Than the Tigers-Last Night's Bowling Games Were of Importance and Hotly Contested-Ruces at New Orleans and Entries for To-day-Other News in the Domain of Sport and Athletles.

Another conference of members of the Wheeling Tigers and Martin's Ferry Vigilants, looking toward another test of strength on the gridiron, was held yesterday afternoon but nothing definite resulted. It seems that the Vigilants possess an abundance of confidence and are anxious that the game be played for $400 or $500 a side. The Tigers think that $100 or $200 a side will Tigers think that $100 or $200 a side will make the contest sufficiently interesting. It is probable a game will be arranged before the week is ended.

The Vigilants still persist in having the game played outside of Wheeling or the neighboring towns. The suggestion that the game be played on the state fair grounds with police attendance, made by this paper, is not found satisfactory for two reasons: First, the cost of fifteen pollcemen is greater than the players are willing the pay, and, second, it claimed that the state fair people want the "earth" for their grounds. Beside these objections it is further claimed that there is no way of keeping the "fence artist" from pursuing his occupation to the disadvantage of the gates.

In the Musee league's tournament the leaders, Nameless, had no trouble in defeating the Press Club three straight, even though they did not roll up to their usual high standard. Nameless has gone through one-fourth of the season with the loss of only one game. Musee has the distinction of winning the one.

Chronicle Telegraph: The number of accidents attending the shipping of coal on the recent rise is surprising, and to give the reader some idea of the vest amount of coal now stuck on sandbars, or lying at the bottesm of the river, a complete list is published below. The accidents are so numerous that no attempt will be made to give them in the order that they occurred. The accidents occurred from this city down, as follows:

tempt will be made to give them in the order that they occurred. The accidents occurred from this city down, as follows:

The Dauntless collided with the Raymond Horner, owned by C. Jutte & Co., Thuraday night last, sinking six coal boats belonging to the Jutte firm, and one barge for T. M. Jonkins & Co. The accident also cost the Tide Coal Company a flat. At Chartiers street one of O'Neil & Co.'s boats sunk a barge.

From Brunot's Island down to Deadman the river is believed to be free from sunkon craft. At Deadman the Relief was the first to meet with disaster. sinking one coal boat. The Cyclone struck two for the Walton Coal Company, which afterward sank and may prove a lossi—the Cyclone also left two barges at the head of Deadman; the Dauntless sunk two coal boats for Jonkins & Co.; Tornado, three coal boats for John II. Jones; Perry Kelsey and the Jim Brown, owned by W. H. Brown Sons, sunk each a barge. There is an unknown barge at Deadman also.

At Logtown the Frank Glimore struck three barges for Briggs & Flint, and was compelled to the up on account of falling river. The Volunteer, of Brown's line, sunk a flat at Logtown, and at Raccoon the Pacific No. 1 sunk for Douds & Miller one coal boat, and laid up at the head of Clusters; the Little Fred, for O'Neil & Co., sunk one barge and struck three at the Clusters; the Ford City sunk one flat at Brown's Island, two below Deadman and one at Lock No. 1.

The Charles Clark exploded her main steam pipe, became disabled, crashing into the John A. Wood and stuking two barges for the Browns. The Sam Clark owned by Walton & Co., sunk two barges at Guyan, according to reports near Maywille.

The total number of pieces sunk is 14 coal boats, 20 barges, 7 flats. There were struck 12 barges and 1 flat. Of this number of pieces 500,000 bushels of coal great total loss, with 172,000 tushels stuck on bars. The total number of bushels stuck and and struck is 782,000, or as much as three ordinary towboats could take into Cincinnati in one trip.

No town in Helmont county fares as well from the saloon business as Barnesville, and yet that town is living under alleged Prohibition. Dridgeport, Martin's Ferry, Bellaire, St. Clairsville and the other towns have saloons that pay the Dow liquor tax. About one-half or two-thirds of the amount paid by them is returned to the respective towns and credited to the general and police funds. The other third or one-half is utilized in paying state or county tax for the poor and relieves all the balance of the county, including Barnesville, of that much general tax. But in Barnesville they fine the saloon men who operate there semi-occasionally, and the returns in a year in this way amount to more than the total Dow tax would, and Barnesville pockets it all.

than the total Dow tax would, and Barnesville pockets it all.

The natural gas company has stop boxes at various points about the city, but one on Belmont street at the railroad bridge pier has always leaked, and mischievous boys often throw lighted matches into it to hear the explosion. Monday evening they tried this and the explosion was an unusual one, sending some of the timbers and briek out of place. The boys hide behind the stone pier until after the explosion, but some day a man with a lighted cigar is liable to be blown into eternity. It is regarded as a very dangerous place. The company has repaired the leak several times, but it seems to be still leaking.
